PathoPhenoDB: A database of pathogen–phenotype associations

[1]Senay Kafkas, [1]Marwa Abdelhakim, [1]Maxat Kulmanov, [1]Marwa Abdellatif, [2]Paul Schofield and [1]Robert Hoehndorf

[1]Computer, Electrical and Mathematical Sciences & Engineering Division, Computational Bioscience Research Center, King Abdullah University of Science and Technology

[2]Department of Physiology, Development & Neuroscience, University of Cambridge

- Patient phenotypes are crucial for the treatment of serious infectious diseases and to determine specific and effective drugs

- Content: phenotypes associated with 692 pathogens and 508 infectious diseases

- Unique source of information for infectious disease diagnosis support

#5

http://patho.phenomebrowser.net